TWO DIAMOND RINGS

Stolen from a Jewelry Store by a Slick Stranger.

NO CLUE TO THE THIEF WAS FOUND.

A Search Warrant Issued for the Wrong Man's Possessions—A Letter Box on the South Side Broken Open and Riddled—Minor Criminal Matters About Town Yesterday.

Just as the clerks at L. G. Dillon & Co.'s jewelry store were preparing to close up the other night a well-dressed, genteel-looking man stepped in and said he would like to examine some diamond rings. A tray containing a number were set out for him, and he spent some time in inspecting them and asked the prices of several. He told the clerk who waited on him that his name was J. E. Lewis.

At length he said he thought he would not purchase just then, but would call again. He left, and the tray was put away in its place in the vault.

The next morning when the tray was taken out it was discovered that two rings were missing. Both had solitaire diamond sets, and one was valued at over $200 and the other at $150.

Search was at once instituted for the supposed thief, "Lewis." Late Wednesday night a man was traced to the Hotel Windsor who answered the description, and about midnight Chief of Police Bennett was informed of the robbery. He swore out the necessary papers, and early yesterday morning the room of the suspected man was invaded. The salesman who waited on Lewis at once said, however, that this was not the right man. There is no clue to the thief, and the rings have about been given up for lost.

A Mail Box Riddled.

Night before last a United States mail box on a lamp post in South Wheeling was broken open and its contents removed and scattered about, whether anything was stolen is not known, and the motive of the thief or thieves cannot be conjectured. The offense is a pretty serious one, and the guilty parties, if caught, are likely to get a good term. The police are working on the case.

Four Cases Yesterday.

In the police court yesterday Jim Dugan and John Mooney were arraigned for fighting. Dugan was let go and Mooney given ten days on the hill. A plain drunk paid $1 and costs. Capt. Gamble was up for landing calves on the wharf before the hour allowed by ordinance—7 o'clock. He said he thought the hour was six. The mayor let him go with a warning, and he promised not to offend in the future.

In Squire Gillespy's Court.

John Forbes was arraigned before Squire Gillespy yesterday, charged with jumping a board bill at Mrs. Rice's, on Main street, near Ninth. The case was partly heard and adjourned.

John Page was given a hearing last night on a charge of breaking open the door of Mrs. Mary Cotts's house at midnight on April 24. He was required to give bond in $100 to keep the peace for a year.

THE LATE JOHN G. CHANDLER.

A Brief Sketch of the Unfortunate Lawyer's Career.

Of Mr. John G. Chandler, the former Wheeling lawyer, whose death from a fall down an elevator shaft at St. Louis was chronicled in yesterday's INTELLIGENCER, the St. Louis Globe-Democrat says:

Mr. Chandler was fifty-eight years of age, and during twenty-five years of his life had been a resident of St. Louis, where he practiced law with great success and became known as a leader in his profession. He had accumulated more than a competence, and had an elegant home at Oak Ridge, where he resided with his wife and daughter. He came to St. Louis in 1870 from Wheeling, W. Va., where he laid the foundation of his career. Nine years ago he was engaged as attorney for the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company, and was active in the prosecution and defense of a large number of notable suits. His last appearance was as a very prominent one, as he was counsel for the Keokuk Railroad Company in its condemnation suit against Mr. W. G. Clark, which occupied nearly two weeks of Judge Elletts' time, and which ended last Saturday in a verdict in favor of Mr. Clark of about one-half of the awards previously made. Mr. Chandler fought this case with his accustomed spirit, and was held to have won a substantial victory in reducing Mr. Clark's allowance so materially. The saving to the company amounted to many thousands of dollars.

Mr. Chandler was a man of dignified and scholarly appearance, and was widely known and admired. He was an untiring worker, and remarked to a friend only yesterday morning that he was tired and intended to leave soon for his annual visit at Battle Lake.

G. A. R. ENTERTAINMENT.

A Fine Programme Last Night, Followed by Dancing.

Last night Holiday Post No. 12, G. A. R., gave a very successful and enjoyable musical and literary entertainment. The attendance was good in spite of the sultry air. Following was the programme:

Solo.....Professor Bartholomew Recitation.....Miss Florence Reed Solo.....Mrs. Gertrude Miller Recitation.....Miss Bora Leonard Funny impersonations.....Nesbitt and Myers Recitation.....Miss Mary Ray Duet—"The Painter of the World," Eliza Henderson Duet.....Gordon, Watt and Willie Dewar Musical glasses.....Kitty Councilman and father Piano solo.....Bernard Wille Vocal solo.....Minnie Dixon

The ladies of the Relief Corps assisted. After the programme there was dancing, and a congenial party enjoyed several hours very pleasantly.

THE REPORTS DECEPTIVE.

What "Reissues" of Pensions Mean Under This Administration.

In the pension reports printed in the paper Wednesday there were twenty-four names of old soldiers to whom pensions had been "re-issued." Said Squire W. W. Rogers, the well known pension attorney, to an INTELLIGENCER reporter yesterday:

"The reports of the work of the pension bureau as sent out by the Associated Press are necessarily brief and formal. For that reason they are misleading. One who is not posted on the subject might think twenty-four reissues in one day was pretty good for the old soldiers; but the fact is a 're-issue' under this administration almost invariably means that a man's pension has been cut down, from $8 or $10 to $6, which is as low as they can get it. Within a few days five old soldiers have been in my office with notices to furnish proof that they are incapacitated for physical labor, or have their pensions cut off. There was not a pension granted in the last printed report."

New Council of the National Union.

The new council of the National Union will be instituted at the Odd Fellows' hall building, corner Twelfth and Chapline streets, by Senate Deputy Capt. H. D. McDonnell, on Monday evening next at 7:30 o'clock.

This council has an enrollment of charter members of two hundred, and, as a rule of the order allows the taking of charter members up to the hour of institution of a council, those concluding at the last moment to apply are enabled under this rule to do so by simply giving notice at the hour of institution in person.

This council promises to be the largest.

eat of the lodge or council kind ever instituted in the state, and to witness the ceremonies, which are of a beautiful and impressive nature, all members of the order are cordially invited by Captain McDonnell.
